Sonja Makes It to the Top

At last! Sonja was climbing Mount Washington. All the members of her group were excited too. But after two hours, three people quit. They were too tired. After two more hours, another person quit. Sonja was the last person. She was tired too. But she had an idea. She took off her backpack. The only thing she kept was her water bottle. Now it was easier. She had new energy. Sonja reached the top, just as she knew she would.
